THE DAILY NEW

THE THEATRES.

RE-APPEARANCE OF SIR HENRY IRVING.

Saturday night at the Lyceum was emphatically a night of "receptions," Mr. J. L. Toole, who, looking fresh and cheery enough to dispel some recent despondent rumours regarding that popular comedian's health, had come up from Brighton to welcome his old friend Irving, and was quickly espied by the audience in a stage box with Mr. John Billington and other friends, and greeted with a burst of cheers. Like honours awaited Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft as they made their way into the stalls; and more than one professional comrade received an equally flattering if less boisterous recognition. The presence of the Princess Louise Duchess of Fife and her husband in the Royal box also gave manifest pleasure to the great gathering. It was not, however, till the curtain had risen upon Mr. Hawes Craven's beautiful street in old London, and Sir Henry Irving in the garb of the Duke of Gloster had stood forth to deliver Richard's famous opening soliloquy that the looker-on began to feel what an audience are capable of in the way of an enthusiastic demonstration. The occasion was from more than one point of view a notable one. Ten weeks had elapsed since this elaborate and splendid revival was so suddenly and unexpectedly interrupted on the very threshold of its career, and for some time its resumption has appeared to be indefinitely postponed, if not definitively abandoned. Happily, however, the latest production of "King Richard III." was not destined to be known as "the one-night revival." The actor's recovery is complete, as was manifest at once by his unconstrained movements. Not a trace of lameness was indeed discernible, and the perception of this fact evidently gave a fresh impetus to the great outburst of welcome which broke forth again and again, delaying the familiar exclamation, "Now is the winter of our discontent" to an extent that would have sorely tried the patience of Sterne's critic with the "stop watch." So far, indeed, from exhibiting any traces of the languor of the sick room, the representative of the crook-back tyrant played throughout the evening with even more than his customary vigour and alertness. The cast has undergone no change since the opening performance, criticised in detail in our columns, save that the part of Lord Lovel is now played by Mr. Gurney in the place of Mr. Archer, who has been promoted to the more important part of Brackenbury. At the fall of the curtain, after the customary compliments to the leading performers, Sir Henry Irving responded to the inevitable demand for a speech with a few parting words, which they comprised

THE

SALE OF VALUABLE BOOKS.

A five days' sale of books from different libraries, comprising many valuable printed works and manuscripts, has been concluded at the rooms of Messrs. Sotheby, Wilkinson, and Hodge, the total amount realised being upwards of 5,000*l*. Some interest was felt in presence of a copy of that rare first edition, Isaak Walton's "Compleat Angler," printed in 1653; but let bookhunters grow wise when they learn that the fact of a few leaves being cut very close and the binding being of modern green morocco instead of the original covers, made a difference of nearly 240*l*. in its value. That is to say that while at the end of last year a perfectly fine copy brought 415*l*., this one fell to Mr. Pickering at 176*l*. The moral of this seems to be, beware, sometimes, of scissors, morocco, and gilt edges. An imperfect third edition of the same (1661) enlarged, brought 30*l*. 10s. (Quaritch). A first edition of Milton's "Paradise Lost," with the very rare title, dated 1667, and an inscription on the fly-leaf "For my loving friend Mr. Francis Rea, bookebinder in Worcestershire," the next leaf having the words "Presented unto me by the Author to whom I gave 2 doubl Souverangs," went to Mr. Maggs at 80*l*. A volume of poems by various writers (1638) in memory of Mr. Edward King, Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge, amongst which Milton's "Lycidas" first appeared, fetched 60*l*. (Quaritch); Goldsmith's Vicar of Wakefield, first edition, 1766, two volumes bound in calf by Riviere, 60*l*. (Maggs); Froissart's Croniques, 4 volumes in 2, gothic letter (1495), first edition, 70*l*. (Pickering); the rare Sarum Graduale, 1532, in red and black gothic letter, with square musical notation, and containing woodcuts and ornamental initials, a copy of large size (and probably unique), in contemporary oak boards covered with stamped leather, 115*l*. (Kaye); Nichol's History and Antiquities of the County of Leicester, 4 vols. in 8, in fine condition and comprising additional plates and portraits as well as an old manuscript, 101*l*. (Joyce); "The Second Funeral of Napoleon in Three Letters to Miss Smith of London, and the Chronicle of the Drum, by Mr. M. A. Titmarsh," a rare Thackeray first edition, 39*l*. (Sabin); a set of six original drawings by Phiz, to illustrate "Sketches of Young Ladies," also the design for the cover, 40*l*., and six others to illustrate "Sketches of Young Gentlemen," 39*l*. (Sabin); "Poems" collected by Ruskin in 1850, first edition, in the original cloth, privately printed for presents only, 22*l*. (Bain); the four parts of that short-lived organ of the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, "The Germ," with etchings by Holman Hunt and others, in half morocco binding, and the original wrappers included, 11*l*. (Fordham); Blake's "Songs of Innocence," 1789, stitched into an account book cover by the author, and presented to his doctor, 42*l*. (Stevens); a Horæ manuscript of the XV. century by a French scribe, with highly finished miniatures and illuminated borders, 124*l*. (Tregaskis); twenty-nine autograph letters from Ruskin to an artist in 1885 and 1886, and four original drawings of foliage by the writer to the same artist, 24*l*. (Tregaskis); a collection of Charters and other Publick Acts relating to the Province of Pennsylvania, 1740, the first edition, printed by Franklin, very rare, 53*l*. (Stevens); first edition of Swinburne's "Laus Veneris," in the original sheets as issued from the press in 1866, only a few copies printed, most of which were given to private friends, 23*l*. 10s. (Robson); a collection of 630 portraits and subjects, theatrical and musical, some of them being scarce mezzotints and coloured prints, 41*l*. (Dobell); an another collection of engravings and drawings, amongst them examples of Rowlandson and Cruikshank, illustrating the Sports, Games, and Pastimes of the English Nation, 53*l*. (Sabin).
